

Privacy Statement

Privacy statement

We are committed to protect any personal information that you may provide to us. Underneath we inform you how we treat information about you that we receive from this website. In general, you can visit our website without telling us who you are or revealing any other information. Our web servers may collect domain names, but not the e-mail addresses of our visitors. Personal information is only collected for a specific purpose, for instance when you request certain information. In this case, the information collected from you may include your name, address, telephone and fax number or e-mail address. You may refuse any request or personal information. Domain name information is not meant to personally identify you. It is used for statistics, such as the number of visitors, pages reviewed, etc. We use this information to measure the use of our site and to improve the content thereof. Personal information will only be used to respond to an inquiry you make or to process your request. We do not share, sell or lease personal information to any third-parties or their marketing use. We will release information about you if you direct us to do so, if we are required by law or in other legally limited circumstances. We maintain strict physical, electronic and administrative safeguards to protect your information from unauthorised or inappropriate access. We restrict access to workers who need to know the information in order to respond to your inquiry or request. Workers who misuse personal information are subject to disciplinary action. We are not responsible for the content, security or privacy policies of linked sites. If you have any questions about our privacy policy, please use the 'Contact Us' page. Changes in our privacy policy may be made without prior notice.